

6516208569.txt

I object to any protectionism afforded traditional media companies whose only objective would be to limit competition from other mediums. Competition has created a robust media market in the US and with softening of media concentration rules in the past decade we should continue to encourage more choices in local markets.